Subject: Do we need to meet in July?

You got Brad Frazier's email saying that Aida Farag is not available for a July NRTC meeting. Aida is the one who headed up Phase I of the chromium study and has the information/answers we need. Aida will be available for our September meeting.

Trustees will get the Phase I report the end of June. Instead of holding a July meeting, one option would be to work by phone after we review the report, then discuss it all with Aida at our September meeting. We would have to meet again in November to deal with Phase II draft report (due in late October). Then the Avoidance study will be out in November. If we don't get busy on the Phase I report soon after it comes out, we'll be reviewing and commenting on three reports at once.

So send me your thoughts about whether we need to meet in July. Thanks.

Susan
