10.1 Introduction

This section describes, in general, the way in which the public will be involved with the implementation of this action plan. The CERCLA, as amended, requires that a community relations plan (~~CRP~~), now known as the Public Involvement Plan (PIP) be approved by the EPA prior to initiation of field work related to an RI/FS. The Parties have agreed that the CRP-PIP is also the proper mechanism to address the public involvement process for all of the RCRA activity to be conducted pursuant to this action plan. In this way, a single document will specify how the public will be involved in these processes.

A CRP-PIP is the overall plan for community relations and public involvement. The following sections highlight key elements of the CRP-PIP.

10.6 Public Comment Opportunities

- Significant Changes to the Agreement. One of the more significant opportunities for public comments pertains to changes made to the Agreement or its Action Plan. Changes to the Agreement or its Action Plan which are significant, as defined by the CRP-PIP, shall be made available for public comment for a period of 45 days.
- ~~Community Relations Plan~~ Public Involvement Plan (PIP). Any major revisions to the CRP-PIP will be subject to public comment for a period of 30 days. The EPA and Ecology will determine whether revisions are major and subject to public comment.

10.10 Indian Tribes

1. To involve these Tribes in the hazardous waste cleanup and management processes at the Hanford Site, the parties will hold special briefings for all interested Tribes periodically on major issues that have arisen and/or may arise. Such briefings will include status reports of the significant projects and will be consistent with the methods used to inform and respond to questions of appointed and elected officials, and other governments, regarding ongoing CERCLA and RCRA activities. These briefings may be in writing or in person and may be conducted by either the EPA, Ecology, or the DOE, as appropriate. Notice will be provided to all Tribes in the Hanford region. These briefings and the procedures for determining which Tribes will be briefed are further described in Section 1.0 of the CRP-PIP.

2. The DOE will provide copies of any of the documents that are sent to the public information repositories directly to the Tribes upon request. The procedure for determining which documents will be sent is described in Section 1.0 of the CRP-PIP. The public information repositories are further discussed in Section 10.2 and in the CRP-PIP. The specific list of documents that will be sent directly to each repository is included in the CRP-PIP. As discussed in Section 10.2, this may include copies of drafts submitted for public comment. Any comments on these documents must be received by the lead regulatory agency within the time period allowed for public comment. The length of each comment period is specified in Section 10.6, and the specific comment period for each document will be noted in the public notice for comment.
