HANFORD TANKS

Decisions on how to safely manage, treat, store and dispose of Hanford's wastes will soon be made. We invite your involvement.

The U.S. Department of Energy and the Washington Department of Ecology are conducting public meetings to hear your views on the proper handling and disposal of Hanford's high-level wastes and related interim actions.

Your viewpoint will help determine the scope of two environmental impact statements. One will address the urgent need to create additional tank space to help mitigate tank safety issues. The other EIS will ultimately define the most appropriate actions to safely handle and dispose of the wastes.
